

stormbreak@home

Support your child's resilience with stormbreak

Have you noticed your child giving up easily?
Is your child fearful of making mistakes?
Does your child struggle with perseverance?

Children's mental and physical health has suffered as a result of the pandemic, and stormbreak want to help.

Resilience is about developing inner strength and courage and growing our ability to keep trying and 'bounce back' from difficult situations.

For children to develop resilience they need adults who can encourage and empower them through their actions and by the words they say. By showing and communicating belief in children they can develop perseverance and resilience to overcome obstacles and to achieve their goals.

At a time where children may need support in how best to recognise, respond and regulate themselves in challenging situations and show resilience, we want to help. The stormbreak Resilience pathway is a series of short movement-based activities to help children to build resilience and bounce back.

Get involved

Step 1: Watch our resilience animation

Step 2: Sign up here

Step 3: Support your child and take part in our resilience pathway and claim your FREE place on our stormbreak resilience parents' workshop

Step 4: Complete our survey

stormbreak.org.uk

stormbreak

Complete a resilience pathway

Developing inner strength and courage and growing our ability to keep trying and to 'bounce back' from difficult situations.

Stepping stone 1

Watch our resilience animation with your child

Try this:

Talk with your child about a time when they were resilient

Stepping stone 2

stormbreak - Nature's trees

Helps us to develop strength and courage as we grow and change. It helps us to recognise how important it is to notice our feelings and to recognise that we can keep trying even when things feel hard or new.

Try this:

Create an obstacle course with your child and encourage them to jump over each of the obstacles. Talk to them about how it feels to jump over one of the obstacles.

Stepping stone 3

Watch our resilience explainer

For children to develop resilience they need adults who can encourage and empower them through their actions and by the words they say.

Try this:

Encourage your child to draw or use paints to create an image or symbol of their inner courage, strength and resilience. Celebrate what they draw!

Stepping stone 4

stormbreak - Pebble meditation

We can all have difficult feelings such as anger, frustration or disappointment. Sometimes we need to notice and take care of these feelings so that we can use them to create our inner strength and courage.

Things to say to your child

It's ok to make mistakes

It's ok to try again

It's ok to not feel in control

It's ok to feel frustrated and feel like giving up

It's ok to take your time

Stepping stone 5

Log onto the stormbreak website and try some of the other resilience stormbreaks with your child:

The feeling Classroom Friendship & photo crosscountry empathy

Well done! Please help us by completing this short, anonymous survey and claim your FREE place on our stormbreak resilience parents' workshop Thank you >

stormbreak